

Faculty Position in Management Information Systems

The School of Business Administration at the University of Vermont is seeking applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Management Information Systems (MIS). Applicants for the assistant professor rank are preferred.

The School has responsibility for teaching all courses in the MIS concentration, core courses in MIS for the School of Business and for the MBA degree. The School is accredited by AACSB at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. The position is available in September 2002. Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with qualifications.

Qualifications required include a Ph.D. or DBA in MIS or a closely related field. ABDs will be considered but need to complete the degree within twelve months of appointment.

Applicants should have evidence of excellent teaching skills and a research program that is clearly defined and targeted toward publication in high quality journals. Interest in interacting with businesses, grant writing, or other outside activities is desirable.

Applicants should be able to teach in at least two of the following core MIS areas: business systems analysis and design with structured and object modeling, business programming with Visual Basic (.NET), data communications and local area networking, database design and administration, web development (HTML, XML, ASP, and JavaScript,), or other related courses that support the School's mission. Some related business experience is preferred. The normal teaching load is 4 course sections for the first year and 5 thereafter.

Send a letter of application including evidence of potential for quality research and teaching, a resume clearly outlining educational background and experience appropriate for the academic rank desired, and the names, titles, addresses and phone numbers of three professional references.

The University of Vermont is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women and those of diverse racial, ethnic and cultural backgrounds are encouraged to apply. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. However, we strongly encourage the submission of materials by June 30, 2002.
